General Veterinary Health check

Owner: Emoya Sanctuary

Date: 20 April 2018

Overall General Report

The 38 lions and 2 tigers at Emoya were very well taken care of. The animals were all in good health and in very good body condition, and not over weight as many lions in captivity become.

The inclosures are very natural and providing lost of stimulus , and the animals have plenty of space to move around in all day. They are well maintained and were clean.

The staff know the animals very well and work well with the animals during feeding and cleaning the inclosures.

The few animals that need special medical treatment, were been treated correctly and a lot of care goes into providing the right amount of food to each animal according to its needs.

The only Lion that need special treatment and care, to maintain quality of life, is Josph. Because of his old age, blindness , arthritis his condition needs to be checked daily , and when he does not eat well any more and starts loosing condition or is unable to move around any more , I would advise euthanasia.
